KILLING IN WINNEMUCCA

A Domestic Trouble Results in a Fatal Shooting.

WINNEMUCCA (Nev.) January 3.—George H. Colson was shot and killed here with a double-barreled shotgun this evening about 8 o'clock, both barrels being emptied into the right side of his abdomen and neck by James A. Gale, a carpenter, who had been engaged by Colson, who is a carpenter, to help him to build his (Colson's) residence, a few months ago. No definite information can be had as to the killing.

Colson's body was found by the coroner with his left foot on the threshold of his house, the door being open and an open knife by his side. It was apparent that he had been shot from the inside near the door. Colson arrived this afternoon from Central district, twenty-eight miles from here, where he had located a claim for local parties.

After the killing Gale gave himself up to Sheriff McDeld and is now in custody pending an investigation.

Rich Float Near Carson.

Some remarkably rich float has been found in the past few years near Carson. It does not appear to be all in one place either, for specimens have been procured from a radius of several miles and from the four points of the compass. Some of these pieces assay up in the thousands. That no one has found the ledge yet is not surprising when we consider that the old Athens company, operating west of town, is about the only one which ever made any determined effort in this direction.

Gus Sun's Minstrels

Pronounced all Right.

The Paris (Ky.) Record of January 17, 1901, has the following to say about Sun's Minstrels: The performance given by the Minstrel magnet, Gus Sun, and his efficient corps of artists in this city last night has been more highly complimented than any organization playing here in recent years.

It is seldom any show pleases every one present, but in this case every man, woman and child there was delighted and left the theater showering praises on the big-hearted Sun. The show is absolutely devoid of the time-worn specialties and stale gags worked off by the average company. Sun has a fine show and there is no discount on this statement. On his return here next season standing room will surely sell at a premium.

Force at Cyanide Plant Is Increased.

Twelve men were added to the force employed at the Butters plant yesterday. Everything at the plant is going ahead rapidly and the men are now comfortably located in the quarters provided by the company. Plenty of food is provided and the men are contented.

Weary Winter for Tonopah.

Two San Francisco men on their way from Tonopah spent last night in Reno. The made a bad report about sanitary conditions there. There is about one death a day from pneumonia. It is difficult to understand the cause of the spread of the disease as the weather is not unfavorable. One of the physicians in the camp ascribes the pneumonia to the dust storms.

People are going in on every stage but are coming out even faster. Everything is unsettled owing to the closing of the leases. Nothing is doing and the camp promises to remain dormant until spring, when there promises to be a second Klondike rush to these fabulously rich diggings.

After the installation a banquet was served.

Fine Showing Made.

Steady and continued improvement is still noted in the copper workings of the Ely Mining and Milling Company. While Superintendent Doty has a number of men prospecting on the vein one shaft is now down thirty-five feet, in ore all the way, and the values have improved steadily from the surface. From this shaft pay ore is now being taken, and the assurance is given that there is no doubt as to the permanency of the copper deposits in that property. —White Pine News.

Will Build the Line.

T. R. Hofer of Carson states that the report published to the effect that the telephone line between Tonopah and Candelaria would not be built is a mistake. He says that the stringing of wires is going on and that in a few weeks the line will be in operation.

A GOOD WORD FOR NEVADA

What a California Editor Says About This State.

Editor Calkins, of Calkin Bros., the publishers of the Pacific Coast Miner, is about as well pleased with Nevada as any man could be. And he has traveled almost all over it. He says to the News that no country, in his opinion offers equal opportunities to the young man about to launch his bark, or to men whom force or circumstances drives to a new beginning in life. An enthusiastic and loyal Californian, he admits that the Golden State possesses no such opportunities. "You are moving on the up'grade," he said, "and I find that you are all beginning to realize it. I find far better feeling in Western Nevada than existed one year ago. You all have confidence in your own State now—and confidence in one's self or in the development of one's State is half the battle."

"Nevada offers no greater opportunities now perhaps, than she has for many years, but the outside world has not known of them. Now Tonopah, with its record breaking output and the organization of the McKinley company, with its publicity, the mines of Washoe county and other sections of the State, have done for you what you have not done for yourself—interested everybody in Nevada."

"I am not a stranger in mineral sections of the coast, but I must confess that I have failed to see anything elsewhere, that you do not have in Nevada, and I have seen many things in Nevada they do not possess elsewhere."

"To realize the greatness of Nevada one must travel over it and note the varied industries, some in operation and some still in embryo. You hardly can realize your own magnitude until you do."

A DRAMATIC CENSORSHIP.

THE granger States were accused of suspending the laws of nation. New York proposes to go them one better by suspending the rules of art. A bill is to be introduced at Albany creating a State board of censors of the drama, which will be charged with the duty not only of passing upon the plays to be produced but of examining and licensing persons who wish to be actors. If the bill becomes a law a man must be something more than a stage manager if he wishes to "strut his hour" before the footlights in New York. Henry Irving has been generally supposed to be something of a stage manager and of an actor. The board, however, may decide otherwise. It may object to his articulation or his makeup and refuse to give him a license. But the New York State Board of Dramatic Censors might be a good thing for the west. There is a possibility that it might stem the tide of "barnstormers" that rolls toward the setting sun from New York City. It might also check the output of warmed over French plays that are turned loose upon the wild and woolly west from New York City. The board of censors may be a good thing. We don't know. The Journal has tried in vain to warm up Reno enthusiasm toward a Board of Trade, we certainly need a board of some kind, and for want of a better, why not emulate Gotham and organize a board of censorship upon the productions at the McKissick opera house?

SCHLEY AND ROOSEVELT.

SECRETARY LONG acted as promptly as he could in the Schley case and his action was just what was expected. He accepted the findings of the court and pays no heed to Dewey, except to say that the court could not consider the question of command at Santiago. The case goes to the President and he is up against a perilous problem. A man of war himself, the President must have sympathy for a man who won a great victory, but Schley is a Democrat, and he cannot afford to sustain him at the cost of censuring Republican officials. The political phase is becoming more prominent as the affair progresses. A Washington correspondent quotes a New England Senator as saying:

"I told the President that he must act at once in the Schley matter, that in my opinion the Admiral was as good as nominated today by the Democratic party for the presidency, and that if the election was held tomorrow he would receive at least 20,000 Republican votes in my small State, and that he would carry New York by at least 100,000. The nomination by the Republicans of the hero of San Juan, and the nomination by the Democrats of the hero of Santiago would create a situation, which, as a Republican, I do not look on with satisfaction."

It is beginning to be comprehended that partisan malice has overreached itself and that instead of crushing Schley, his detractors have made him the idol of a large portion of the people. But the talk of nominating Schley comes from Republicans more than from Democratic sources. Leading Democrats have shown but little disposition to make a national issue of Schley. Republicans have seen that Schley is becoming immensely popular and that the sense of justice of the American people would make him a formidable candidate.

The correspondent further says: "It is astonishing how the Schley presidential movement has grown in the past 24 hours. Democrats who yesterday were disposed not to take the question of his candidacy seriously today are hailing him as the man that will lead their party out of the wilderness." As one old line Democrat said today:

"Zachary Taylor was nominated practically without a platform, and why not Schley? The great issue will be: Shall the hero of Santiago receive the reward that the American people believe he is entitled to? If Schley is nominated to the presidency it will be the first time in the history of the country that the navy has been recognized in this way. The army has frequently been honored but never the navy."

It is a long time to the nominating convention and enthusiasm has a chance to die out or to create a popular demand before that date.

HANNA AS A LABOR CHAMPION.

IN discussing the recent conference of leaders of labor and capital commented upon in yesterday's Journal Hanna said: "I would want no greater monument than to have the world remember that I did something to end war between American labor and American capital." Hanna is in politics now and is making what Champ Clark calls "goo goo eyes" at the labor vote, but when he destroyed the lake seamen's union he probably was not thinking of running for office. Of course Mark would like to end these uprisings of labor against the unnecessary wage reductions practiced by some of the richest corporations of the United States but he would prefer to do it by crushing all of the labor organizations. Perhaps Hanna thinks he had better make his goo goo eyes while he can for it looks as though Foraker would like to remove the goo goo from Mark's eyes. It is reported and generally believed that Foraker has quietly effected a coup that will give him control over the Ohio legislature, to the destruction of Hanna's further senatorial aspirations. While it is not our funeral, we still have a choice in the corpse, and in this matter our preference is decidedly in favor of Mark's.

THE National Irrigation Association indorses the Newlands bill and strongly recommends its passage. Stewart finds fault with and opposes it. But then the National Association is in favor of the irrigation of land, while Stewart believes that all of the surplus water of the country is needed to moisten the stock of the steel, sugar and oil trusts.

WE learn from the Gardnerville Courier that the White Pine News called the editor of The Journal all kinds of a liar. The Courier has The Journal scribe's thanks for mentioning the compliment, which might otherwise never have come to his notice.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN the other day drew his check for $34,000,000. It wasn't much of a check either, come to think of it. Almost anybody could do it if his ink held out. Drawing the cash upon it is where the trouble commences. According to our experience and observation.

Mr. ROOSEVELT says that any man can be president but it takes a great man to be captain of a football team. This is another instance of the yearning after the unattainable. The President was never the captain of a football team, and it isn't likely that he ever will be.
